DETAILED ACTION

In response to the amendment filed on 3/10/2004, all the amendment to the claims have been entered, and the action follows:

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 8-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The subject matter as "a non-silicon wafer substrate" as claimed in claim 8, has no written description in the specification.

Claims 9-17 are dependent on claim 8, and therefore, they are rejected also.

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Art Unit: 2623

4. Claim 17 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The limitation of "a non-silicon wafer substrate comprises PCBs" is not clear, because a substrate cannot be PCB, because a PCB is built on a substrate.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Art Unit: 2623

7. Claims 8-17 as best understood are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Samuels (US 6483937).

With respect to claim 8, Samuels discloses a inspection device for an object in that a design lay out is constructed "defining an image map", where obtaining at least two different references each with distinct electrical circuit configuration to be inspected (see figure 2, 42, 44 the Mater pattern #1 and Mater pattern #2 are distinct configuration) utilizing different references together with orientation define map (see col. 3, lines 12-30) and acquiring an optical inspection output of electrical circuits and employing the image map and inspection output in a computerized automated inspection system (see figure 2 54, 31, and col. 3, lines 33-66) as claimed. However, he fails explicitly disclose obtaining orientation for the electrical circuit, as claimed. But, as described in col. 3, lines 20-25 the design layout is the design data i.e. the data is made up of different circuits with their size and shapes, therefore, one ordinary skilled in the art at the time of invention can simply call that as the orientation data, and can be use in the inspection process to generate a image map for the inspection.

With respect to claim 9, he further discloses, obtaining at least two different references comprises defining for each different references shape and size, (see col. 3, lines 20-27) as claimed.

With respect to claim 10, he further discloses electrical circuit includes at least one holes, (see col. 2, lines 60-64, the areas and the semiconductor device does has the holes on them) as claimed.

Art Unit: 2623

With respect to claim 11, he further discloses grouping plurality of references into at least one cluster, (see figure 2, numerical 41, the mater pattern #1 and the master pattern #2 are the clusters) as claimed.

With respect to claim 12, he further discloses defining cluster of references included a location of reference (the master pattern #1 has the location of the circuits on the object) as claimed.

Claims 13-16 are the well-known features of the automated inspection system, therefore, one ordinary skilled in the art at the time of inspection can simply use the known features of the automated inspection system in order to inspect an object.

With respect to claim 17 as best understood, he further discloses plurality of circuit are formed on a substrate, (see col. 2, lines 39-45, the semiconductor device has the plurality of circuits on a substrate) as claimed.

Response to Arguments

8. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 8-17 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

9. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP

§ 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
